

Lound Archive — part 7

After the Civil War ended in 1642 there appears to be no records of interest relating to the village of Lound for more than a century. It is not until the second half of the 18th century when in 1778 the Enclosure Acts were implemented. A series of Acts of Parliament that empowered enclosure of open fields and common land in England and Wales, creating legal property rights to land that was previously held in common. Between 1604 and 1914, over 5,200 individual enclosure acts were passed, covering 6.8 million acres.

In Sutton and Lound, 719 acres of commonable lands were awarded to the Duke of Portland as impropiator and 106 acres to the vicar in lieu of all tithes. The Duke's portion, known as Dane's Hill Farm, was partly in Sutton and part in Lound.

Three years later, a school was built midway between these villages at a cost of £100, towards which the sum of £70 came from a charity left by Reverend Taylor in 1742.

Jenny Lane

Another big thank you to everyone who so kindly helped in any way at Jenny's "Goodbye Party". Bringing food, making tea, washing up etc. It went really well and I think Jenny would have enjoyed every minute of it and would have been quite pleasantly surprised to see how many people came to celebrate her life.

Julia Kershaw

I have been overwhelmed by the letters of support during Julia's illness and even more by the lovely cards of condolence since her passing. As you know her funeral, was at her request just for family but I would like to invite all who knew her to the Bluebell Inn on Friday 14th December at 3.00pm, so I can thank you all personally and so we can raise a glass or two and celebrate her life of 40 years in the village she loved and was always actively involved in. Jerry
