

Linghurst Lakes Creation

As many of you are aware, Linghurst Lakes was formed following sand and gravel extraction by Tarmac PLC when they were operating the concrete works down Chainbridge Lane.

Prior to the lakes it was open fields and woodland. Now over 25 years since Linghurst Lakes was created, each month a picture/s will be shown to indicate how it has changed.

The first in the series is an aerial view of the village and open fields looking towards Blaco Hill Farm from Neatholme Lane. This is in 1994 the start of sand and gravel extraction.

The First Cars of Lound

The first car in the district was about three miles north of Lound at the estate of Wiseton Hall. The car of unknown make was a black and yellow limousine owned by Gen. Sir Joseph Laycock. This would most likely be a specially made coach body built on a separately manufactured chassis and running gear.

The first car in Lound was at Highfield House, owned by Mr Frank Peglar and thought to be a Renault car. The Peglar family were owners of the Rubber Works in Retford, a business that still exists today. Alan Peglar a son of Frank became well known for owning the Flying Scotsman Train, taking it to America and leading to much misfortune.

The second car in Lound was owned by the Hon. Mrs. Huntsman of Lound Hall, which was chauffeur driven. The car had a very large brass circular radiator front. There were two sets of two seats facing each other in the back and under cover, and a chauffeur seat in the open at the front with no cover, just a windscreen. The most likely manufacturer of the car would be Simplex, who made the cars in Tinsley Park, Sheffield in the same area as the Huntsman steel and manufacturing businesses.

These cars are from the very beginning of the 20th century.

>Dog Fouling:

Again, we continue to receive many complaints from villagers about irresponsible dog owners who do not clear up the mess left by their dogs.

Dog fouling is not only deeply unpleasant, it is dangerous. Whilst rare, contact with dog excrement can cause toxocariasis – a nasty infection that can lead to dizziness, nausea, asthma and even blindness or seizures.

Dog fouling is a national problem – there are estimated to be more than 8 million dogs producing more than 1,000 tonnes of mess every day in the UK alone!

A Criminal Offence: If you fail to clear up after your dog you can be issued with a Fixed Penalty Notice of £100.
